In this conversation with Sav'el, the Taygetean Science Officer, he explains to us the research project that he is developing from Earth orbit, on the influence of people-consciousnesses in the Earth's magnetic field.

START OF THE VIDEO

Hello everybody. Welcome to Pleiadian Knowledge. I am Estel-la. Today we bring you a very special video that was a conversation we had with Sav'el of Erra, you will recognize him by the nickname of Alahi Eshtar, which is the one he uses and is in his details with all the others who are in the crew in the video that we presented to you. He is the Science officer on this ship and we had a conversation where Cristina and I were present and the other contacted Lina. Where Sav'el was explaining to us that he was doing a research project, observing the influence of all the consciousnesses of the Earth, of humans, animals, and plants and the influence they had on the magnetosphere, and how they came from this form to how the consciousnesses were united between them creating a more expanded one, that would be in this case our planet, the planet Earth.

Everything he explains to us is super interesting because you will see that we also asked him about the influence of star-seeds on this field, and you will see a very big difference with, for example, humans. Also, he explains the influence of plants or animals. Also, we tell you that if you want to know more details about what we discussed in the video, which is the human collective unconscious, I recommend that you watch the video of Cosmic Agency: "The importance of the human collective unconscious." We are going to leave the links in the description so that it can help you understand a little better.

Apart from this too, tell you that both the image that Sav'el and Lina use are just avatars that they use to represent themselves. They are not their actual pictures. And we ask you to stay until the end of the video so that you can understand everything that he explains to us well, and apart from this I hope you enjoy it as much as we do because the truth is that it is very interesting and very important. So I'm going to leave you with the video. Thank you all for always being there and we will see each other in the next videos.

CONVERSATION WITH SAV'EL "ALAHİ ESHTAR" OF ERRA

Alahi Eshtar of Erra is Science Officer of the Toleka ship. He is the chief scientist and researcher, as well as a historian, philosopher, physicist and mathematician, and contra-mind control.

Estel-la.- What projects are you working on?

Sav'el of Erra.- I study the structures of magnetic influence of the inhabitants of the Earth. Humans and non-humans, animals and plants, on the Earth's magnetosphere. Holding the hypothesis of what causes it directly despite the mediocre influence of the Van Allen Belts. Thus creating a scientifically observable basis of what Yázhi Swarú maintains, that all consciousness of an organism is added to another nearby one to create a collective that creates a more evolved or more expanded being, in this case, the Earth itself.

Estel-la.- How interesting. And what devices do you use for it?

Sav'el of Erra.- A set of spectrometers and interferometers put together to power a computer. Spectrometers will measure individuals and populations as an electromagnetic frequency. You could say a personal and collective time. And, the interferometers will measure the total planetary part as gravity and mass fluctuations. Particular changes are reflected in the total mass of the planet, its frequency. What some call: Schumman Frequencies. Although, this frequency is too general and not very precise, this must be observed in micro frequencies and not in Hertz, since it is like measuring the length (speed?) of a mouse with a speedometer set in miles per hour.

Cristina.- Thank you. We find your work very interesting. What have you observed in all this?

Sav'el of Erra.- I have observed, using a multitude of state-of-the-art sensors, that the theories of a little girl turn out to be true, therefore, she is still ahead of us in the scientific field, this time in the area of biological cosmology.

Cristina.- Incredible Yázhi.

Estel-la.- Well, yes. How long have you been in this project?

Sav'el of Erra.- Almost a year. It ends on July 10. It depends on year-long readings in order to draw a conclusion. The longer the time, the more accurate the results. So far they are conclusively in favor of the little girl's theory.

Estel-la.- I understand, how interesting. And, do you think that this year, even with everything, is reliable for the results?

Sav'el of Erra.- I see that what happens on Earth, being that they are dramatic events, facilitates the reading of the sensors, simplifying the detection of the elements that support the experiment.

Estel-la.- I understand. Of course, everything is potentialized, only that the worst of humanity must come out.

Sav'el of Erra.- The average of the so-called collective aura or local collective frequency can be easily detected between two apparently similar places or different places such as Curaçao as a high frequency, or Copenhagen with an average low frequency. The fact that there is so much contrast facilitates the study of the phenomenon.

Estel-la.- I understand, thank you. And what is Yázhi's theory? Here at your job, I mean.

Sav'el of Erra.- That, in the end, the Whole, the Universe, The Source, is the direct result of the sum of the individual consciousnesses, being that by not being linear, each consciousness has been the Universe itself. So, an advanced being is not just a being, but the result of the average of multiple beings of lesser consciousness that compose it as cells do a body.

Estel-la.- By forming between us then, the planets and the stars and so on?

Sav'el of Erra.- Since it would be the material observable part, yes.

Cristina.- And what would be the non-material?

Sav'el of Erra.- The consciousness that generates the material part. Either as a direct intention or as a by-product of your purely energetic activities.

Lina.- And, what subjects or things do you take as individuals? In other words, do you take a seed of each race, a direct pair from The Source as individual subjects, or non-real subjects, or by demographic zones?

Sav'el of Erra.- I take individual people. Animals that make up a population too. Like a city. I take the city itself too, as a total. So, I contrast the result of the sum of the values of the sum of the frequencies of its inhabitants and I contrast it with the reading of the city as such. Although, there are variations for causes yet to be studied, they correspond almost perfectly, and as an experiment it is repeatable and consistent, I conclude that the girl is right.

Taking into account seeds it changes in the sense that they are not equivalent in frequency to the population average. Observing, I can see with sensors, spectrometers and interferometers, that the starseeds have the magnetic force and influence on the total frequency of the place of many normal people. Sometimes equivalent to several hundreds of thousands of average people for a single seed. Being that, in a scientifically measurable way, the enormous creative responsibility of each seed can be verified.

Estel-la.- Wow. What a big difference.

Lina.- That's why our range of action is so important.

Sav'el of Erra.- Yes. We do not need to change all humans, just to unite the seeds.

Cristina.- In the consciousness of the Earth, who has more influence: the seeds, or for example the vegetable and animal kingdom?

Sav'el of Erra.- Although my answer is annoying and also unfair, what the sensors tell me is that it is the seeds that have the greatest influence.

Lina.- Why is it annoying and unfair to you?

Sav'el of Erra.- Because I have a tendency to protect biology incapable of creating a visible elaborate culture. The animal and plant kingdom maintains high frequency, but also low, due to its mentality, mostly of survival. But still, the part of sustaining high frequency is directly affected by the activities of the human collective which, itself, is directed by the conscious creators, or seeds.

Lina.- It wouldn't be what is expected, seeing the development of society and its state of manipulation compared to the one that the seeds feel or remember?

Sav'el of Erra.- It is to be expected. That is correct, but I wish that nature itself would seek its own homeostasis despite human activity. Being that it will create its own protection mechanisms against exploitative activities from humans, but the evidence does not support this case.

Estel-la.- What average of seeds do you observe in each city, for example? or globally?

Sav'el of Erra.- Each seed on average is equivalent in its creative frequency to 1500 normal humans, of what you call the Matrix. But I mean, those 1500 are being influenced by an average seed. And said average seed is not particularly awake. Many times we even confuse them for more human Matrix people. A highly awakened seed influences tens of thousands or hundreds of thousands, sometimes more, influencing millions. An example of this last super level is David Icke.

Estel-la.- And in comparison or percentage, that is, if there are a million inhabitants, how many of them would be seeds? And do you see them evenly distributed across the planet or do they tend to focus more on some countries or energy zones?

Sav'el of Erra.- I'm still working on solving this question. It turns out that the detectable seeds melt into the normal population, making their detection impossible. So only the very awake can be counted. But as for how many wake up per million, on the earthly average, it would be something close to 5,000 (per million). Which is, sadly, few. However, this number is not final. They have a tendency to concentrate in regions. The region or place with the most population of seeds, over 90% among its inhabitants would be: Sedona, Arizona. Still, on average in the United States, numbers of awakened seeds drop drastically when compared to places like Europe or Latin America, where the seed population is higher. Especially in Central and South America. With another high concentration of seeds in the East, from India, Nepal, Thailand, Laos and Burma. And, with a reading of the least amount of seeds per million in China, being the place with the scarcest non-human population according to interferometer readings.

Estel-la.- Wow. How curious. I wouldn't have expected it, particularly in Sedona, Arizona. Thank you very much for sharing.

Sav'el of Erra.- The United States does not have a particularly high population of seeds as would be expected. Still they are condensed in Arizona and the New Mexico area. Some in California and spread throughout the rest of the nation.

Cristina.- Thank you very much for the information. Some of that was interesting to me, others like China, I already imagined it.

Sav'el of Erra.- You're welcome. For China the result is expected.

Lina.- Is there a place in Argentina where you say there is a high concentration of awake seeds?

Sav'el of Erra.- Buenos Aires area, strong amount. Peak seed population frequency. Buenos Aires-area, only second in number of seeds in all of South America. After the Rio de Janeiro area in Brazil. However, note that I mention cities or places, but many strong seeds prefer to work outside of large urban areas. Also, they are on average the ones that have the greatest influence.

Estel·la.- And, I suppose that the influence they have on other people is due to the personal frequency emitted by being there. Because if they are not part of that collective unconscious, how do they manage to influence their mental field without totally separating?

Sav'el of Erra.- The moment they are there, they are part of the collective. And, although if a strong seed separates itself from society and cuts itself out of all communication in a town within the Amazon, even so, the earth's magnetic field and its average continues to flow. But if said seed connects with others in the way that you are present here, its influence is exponentially greater, as well as the result of raising the average Planetary Frequency. So a seed, just for existing and following its life and its interests, is already helping to raise the frequency of the Earth and is influencing the field of consciousness of the collective without having to dedicate itself to anything related to awakening other people. Its mission is simply to help by the mere fact of existing.

Estel·la.- I understand, thank you. Is a seed related or connected to the human collective unconscious?

Sav'el of Erra.- Yes. As I have already said. I refer more to the collective human unconscious than merely the measurable frequency, but both are intrinsically related.

Cristina.- But can't a seed at the same time be dragged down by the human collective? For example, by the mental pressure that is exerted on it and creating an opposite effect, that is, lowering the planetary vibration.

Sav'el of Erra.- That is also correct and happens all the time. For a seed the increase in strength will be exponentially more demanding in all senses, energetic, mental. Since the majority only strive not to fall in total frequency, since the average of the group has the tendency to drag them down. This can simply be explained with the dominant frequency principle. It is very difficult and demanding to be a seed, especially knowing that if it falls in frequency in a spiral of negativity, its circle of influence will fall in the same way.

Cristina.- I understand, thank you. Complicated.

Estel·la.- And that's why many are lost.
