

20220112-Taygeta-The-Human-mind-and-the-Brain-how-it-works

THE HUMAN MIND AND THE BRAIN HOW IT WORKS ACCORDING TO THE EXTRATERRESTRIALS - Swaruunianas - Taygeteans

Robert: With everything we know about human creations like tulpas and the various levels of play, "Draconian Empire, Orion Alliance" would be another level of play. This would only be in our little heads? I want to know if that exists for the United Federation of Planets. Or are they effectively the fears of the "lower zones of the Federation passed to Earth and on Earth distorted by humans?"

Yázhhi: Yes, they exist on the outside. The problem is that the concept or the idea of how they are, are specific to the Earth and do not reflect the external reality. Being that the Earth itself (as the human collective unconscious) will reflect and interpret these concepts of negative alliances, meaning of evil,

So the idea is totally distorted and humanized and does not correspond to what really happens. It is here where the human collective unconscious will reflect or shape its own fears in the concepts of extraterrestrial regressive races. And since the human race as a collective is totally separate from the extraterrestrial collective, it will generate egregores specific to the human race. (Except for unconscious filtration by seeds and the like).

The concept of egregor or tulpa does not mean that it is a fantasy. It is part of the total mechanism of manifestation and formation of a collective reality (I have individual but I speak of the collective here).

So what countless New Age ufologists reflect, of those who think they know about Federations and Exopolitics, will only reflect what they have accepted as a community among their acquaintances. This is why your Galactic Federations of Light are so dual, good and evil, dark fleet and light fleet.

They are unable to see that such dual concepts, all white or all black, is just a reflection of their own brain structure divided into two hemispheres. And other races can't see it that way since they don't have split brains.

It is worth explaining here that the so-called unified non-human brain, that of many non-human races based on Lyra, does contain laterality in the structure to keep systems functioning within the body. However, the cortical part, also called gray matter, is not divided by a physical ditch as is the case with the human brain. Rather, it communicates with total efficiency between both hemispheres, since it is this "thinking" part of the brain that is not divided.

This goes beyond simple "CPU" efficiency but reflects another understanding of reality, plasma for the being having the experience in a body equipped in this way something completely different from the human experience. Things are clearer, without so much need for constant comparison. This then generates another existential reality by having another understanding that conflicts with that of the human.

This is not to mention control agendas on information by the Cabal through its 3-letter agencies that impose a trend with the information that the UFO "investigators" will then follow.

For all this above, we can understand why what some scholars explain with their Exopolitics differs so much from what we say. Realities don't fit together.

Yazi, one question. Is the veil of oblivion related to our state of mind? Or is that just agreements? Or both things? For example, Anéeka has a veil of oblivion. Just remember to be Tay, Tay, Tay.

Yazhi: The veil of oblivion obeys something very simple. It's not some machine that erases memories, or anything like that. It's the same mechanism that erases dreams when you wake up. What is in more energetic, lighter planes of existence is not compatible in frequency with the heavier material world, so it does not link those mental frequencies. It is that the memory is not in the brain, it is in the etheric field. So if those frequencies are very subtle, the brain does not decode them. To remember a past life or last night's dream you have to hold onto it somehow long enough for that subtle thing to imprint a reaction in the brain that can bring it into the physical world as a memory.

The brain translates what is in the field and brings it into the physical world. It does not produce the memories. He only embodies them in the physical world. That also happens due to pre-natal agreements like with Anéeka.

Robert: Nobody erases your memory. It is logical that those memories are "taken" from the ether of other "densities". Etheric field yes.

Yázh: No, nobody, that's New Age. Fears, archons with pitchforks, it is not. It is only a process of frequencies, compatible and not compatible, with the so-called physical world. That's it.

Robert: "The veil of oblivion obeys something very simple. It is not a machine that erases memories, or anything like that. It is the same mechanism that erases dreams when you wake up. What is in more energetic planes of existence, lighter, is not compatible in frequency with the heaviest material world." I love the definition.

From another conversation:

Robert: Is the veil of oblivion selective? Can you remember two incarnations ago but not the last one for some reason? Can you forget intermediate incarnations for some reason?

Aneeka: Yes, it seems to be selective with some form of intentional control from the entertainment side. We understand that the veil of oblivion occurs due to the incompatibility of frequencies between the low on the material side and the high on the side of inter-life, but that is the scientific explanation.

Robert: Oh. I imagine that time is not linear, is that why? Could it be because of that too?

Anéeka: That's right, it's not linear.

Robert: They don't necessarily have to follow a "line" continuity. Okay. So with what you've told me now and again about the brain and the pineal gland.

Anéeka: From the side of the interview, things are only handled by frequency compatibility, not by times or spaces or dates or linearity.

Robert: This, the pineal gland, has nothing to do with the veil of oblivion?

Anéeka: Just as an entry point, although we have said that it is the whole body and the whole brain.

Robert: Not for physical things on Earth like the pineal gland. Yes. The whole body but yesterday you talked about the crown chakra, do you remember? Yes, we are a unit. Why is the body separated into energy points? Or energy nodes.

Anéeka: It is that it does not separate, there are only hot spots, but the body is a whole, I use chakras as I use that of 3D as references only.

Robert: Ask. Why is the human brain divided into two hemispheres? Is it to experience our experience in duality? I understand that those of the unified brain also experience it. But is it for some reason "metaphysical"? Thank you.

Anéeka: It is the result of the thought of beings with a serious predisposition to think in duality. First is the thought, then the physical manifestation. His predisposition incarnation after incarnation to think in dual terms is embodied generically as a split dualistic brain. But it is still a decision from the astral to incarnate like this, but it is the result of the attachments to the ideas that it holds and still has in the astral.

Robert: Every time we separate more from reality.

Aneeka: Exactly.

Robert: That's why that video of Yazhi went very well. Duality... Dark Fleet... Light Fleet. Yes.

Anéeka: They can't think like many ETs, simply because they don't have the hardware. However they could develop it if they want it.

Robert: Exactly. Besides, what are some bio-suits doing talking to the Federation? That is not your experience. I am a member of the Federation and to speak with them I do not have to do it through a bio-suit. What nonsense is that?

Anéeka: Being split-brained is not a real handicap. It is their mentality, their ideas. And those are what causes that dual brain. Because the physical DNA that dictates the formation of that split brain was manifested as a mirror of your ideas and attachments to those ideas.

From another conversation:

Gosia: If for example I was imported to Venus as a slave, would my Taygetean DNA go back there?

Yázhí: Yes to you, most likely yes. The only problem, so I say probable, is that the mind is so strong that it can maintain human DNA even when awake. However, the latter would hardly be maintained by your brain if you go to Taygeta since that is your natural environment and it would be overwhelming for your human perception since Taygeta is also contained in your DNA right now.

However, if you go to Venus today, since its environment is tropical like Earth's Southeast Asia, you would feel the same as if you got on a plane like you are today, and you go down to visit Thailand. You are not going to change to a Taygetean, you stay with Gosia appearance.

Notice how useless the Van Allen Bands are.

Another conversation:

Robert: If humans are not compatible with Taygeteans, how can it be that the "Russians" have Taygetian genetics?

Anéeka: Very simple. It is degraded by the 3D. Explained by Swaruu. You walk in with 24 chromosomes and you lose one. From 12 strands it is compressed to two. Only for the simplification that being in lower density confers. Remember that low densities are simple, high densities are complex in everything. To many it will sound strange, not scientific. The reason is metaphysical. But all this happens because the conscience wants it that way.

Yazhi: Because when a Taygetean is in 3D for a long time he becomes compatible. It can be seen as DNA degradation. It is not degradation, it is adaptation to density.

I know that there are no densities but if there are collective unconscious, which are what define a density, they are ideas. Still, ideas... affect what you perceive as physical. What Anéeka says, too.

Robert: Does he become compatible even though he has a brain mass or does his brain split like humans too? I mean, would the Taygetean transform internally?

Your organs?

Yázhì: It does not split if it is "step down". But his children yes, if he has them with a human-a.

Robert: To be compatible or can it be compatible even with those different organs?

Yazhi: The organs are not transformed or changed, they only degrade or age.

Robert: So one thing would be the DNA and the other the "biological" body, although everything is linked. Your DNA degrades and you are compatible even if you are different inside but those "children" would come out as humans.

Yazhi: It could be.

Robert: For example, if Raguel was on Earth lost without technology, would her DNA degrade? And he could have a family once the DNA degraded.

Yázhì: It would take 7 years but yes.

Robert: But the child would be human. Yes, 7 years minimum.

Yazhi: It's just possible that you can. Because the ET mentality is very strong and holds the DNA. That factor is missing. To degrade the DNA you need to become the Matrix as well. The mind is very strong and keeps you as what you decide to be.

Another conversation:

Gosia: One question, Athena Swaruu, in a chat with Robert, you said:

"The frequency of the Van Allen Bands are what determine the existential frequency on Earth and not the frequency of the Ionosphere." But it has also been said that Van Allen bands don't matter, that it is human consciousness that determines their existential collective frequency. But then the Van Allen Bands do play a role in determining the existential frequency of the population? Do these Van Allen bands really determine things here, or do they have the big role? As Yazhi says, it doesn't matter Van Allen, only the state of mind.

But if memories and other things are activated just or shortly after crossing these bands, then it indicates that they DO have a role in the frequency and functioning of the individual, right? As you said in the first sentence: "The frequency of the Van Allen Bands is what determines the existential frequency on Earth. As "existential" frequency, call the cycles per unit of time of the molecular oscillations that make up the matter on Earth."

Swaru X (Athena): They are the existence or base frequency of the so-called terrestrial 3D. They generate the psychic slime that gives the illusion of separation from everything else. But that frequency is very low, it's like it only reaches frequency level 50 as an example. And the average human consciousness is 35 and the awake ones are at 45, but still below 50.

However, if they worked harder, they would go up to say 55, and the Van Allen Bands no longer matter there. (The scale I just made as an example).

Then the people who have not yet reached a certain level of consciousness are invaded by the artificial 3D mud, but the people who exceed the maximum point or frequency of said bands escape. They no longer see things the way they used to and they will never be able to go back to how they thought before, how they decoded reality.

So even though the Van Allen Bands are bothering us, people have the ability to transcend them. So they don't really matter.

And people if they just agreed to perceive things collectively in a more positive way, they would make the average of human collective thought rise beyond the "50 point" escaping said reality.

It's not like humans are at 35 points and awakes are at 45 points when the Van Allen bands are at 500, like unreachable. This artificial 3D mud is very superficial, only those who do not understand that the only thing they have to do to see reality as it is is get their heads out of the muddy water get confused and lost. The Van Allen Bands are there and at the same time they don't matter, they are not the reason humanity doesn't wake up. It's not an excuse.

Gosia: But they seem pretty unattainable even if none of us here remember anything, nor do we have more advanced features activated.

Swaruu X (Athena): It is not measured in remembering or remembering data, as fixed memories, it is measured by remembering who you are inside of you, knowing more than that.

You don't have active memories because they haven't been translated into your physical body, but are what you call astral. It happens as with dreams. You don't remember them because they are experiences from other realities, and they need to be actively processed by the physical brain so that they are memories already in the physical.

The brain is the translator. If you don't process them, they are lost, but only from when you are conscious in the physical. That's what the body is for. Without the body you leave, you are astral, you need to somehow contain a set of ideas that form memories in the physical-brain that in turn will determine the ego and the Self of a person.

If I go down there, or anyone else from outside the Earth, we don't forget anything here. Because the experiences are already contained in the physical body - brain. It is as if the dream were a streaming video. Astral signal entering the physical body, but if you leave the necessary frequency you lose the signal because you have not "downloaded" the video.

I wouldn't forget life here because it's already on my mental "hard drive." It's just a matter of frequencies, that's all.

The Van Allen Bands determine the average of the Earth in terms of frequency and at the same time it does not matter for the awakening of people.

So if the frequency of the Van Allen Bands is 50, and being on Earth and from Earth you have lived your entire life at level 35, you will not remember anything new, only dreams, dream world. And if you wake up spiritually you would be say 65 out of 50, 15 above, still you don't remember because you haven't physically translated what is not from that 3D frequency to your mental "hard drive". So whether you remember or not does not determine your level of consciousness.