Why are there so many blood groups here on Earth and is blood transfusion done in Taygeta?

Robert: In Taygeta there are so many too?

Anéeka: In short, because the human being is an enormous mix of different races and souls, which manifest themselves in this kind of variables. Short answer.

In contrast, the Taygeteans are all blood type O is - or + and no, it does not cause genetic problems that when reproducing, but that here. And the Swaruus, all of them, are A+ blood class, another indication that they are NOT the same race as the Taygetean. They are clearly another.

Robert: And it does not cause problems to have all the same blood? Can't children go wrong? It is as if the same relatives had children.

Anéeka: On Earth it can cause problems, not always, in Taygeta it is not a problem to have the same blood type.

I know there are cases, but the causes of each case should be studied in detail, I don't think they are just because they have the same blood type since there are not that many and the fact that they reproduce between people with the same blood type is extremely common and without any problem.

Saying that a problem that the baby presents is due to having the same blood type, for me it is a very simplistic 3D explanation that does not cover all the possible causes, whether or not with its partial 3D genetic explanations that do not cover everything that happens in genes or how they work.

Robert: And another thing. Do you do blood transfusions? Or not, for what that entails metaphysically speaking?

Anéeka: Yes, it is done in extreme cases. Here a machine grows more blood for the injured in a few minutes from stem cells already pre-prepared within the same medical system. This device is exactly the same one that also feeds stem cells to the regeneration Med-Pods, which we have already talked about.

Yes, it compromises in terms of the metaphysical. It is a more compromising step between two people or just as compromising as having sex. They become that other person. In the case of transfusions in one direction affecting the recipient.

Yes, it can cause behavioral changes and soul entanglement, it happens on earth all the time, but it's never talked about. It is that in itself it is more important to save the life of someone than to be thinking about esoteric consequences.

I feel that on Earth you should donate blood when necessary. The affected person is really the one who receives it, being the minor the one who donates it. The problem with this is that yes, links are created from both sides. But on Earth, or wherever, there are always etheric links. I feel that it is not so serious to donate. But if the receive. However, there is a reason for receiving blood and if you are in that position, the etheric links would be an inconsequential problem compared to the medical condition that caused you to need to receive blood in the first place.

Photon Belt :

Anéeka, and what do you know about this: "According to several researchers, this interstellar cloud was observed for the first time in 1961 around the Pleiades constellation and was called a "photon belt", due to the white halo it projected. One of the Proponents of the "photon belt" was Noel Huntley, Ph.D., who wrote an article in 2010 titled "The Photon Belt Encounter," where he described its existence and great interest to extraterrestrials: "What is this electromagnetic cloud , this golden nebula, which aliens sometimes call the radiant nebula? Its most universal designation is 'photon belt' or 'photon band', which consists of many bands, and any encounter with this belt is recognized by the aliens as being of great importance?"

Anéeka: Again, that is information distorted or taken in another way, but I do not invalidate it. It turns out that the Pleiades as a group of stars placed close together have their own energetic dynamics between them, as would any other nearby star cluster. It is the gravitational-energetic dynamics and the balance between all of them. It is what forms or makes the nebula glow with its distinctive blue light.

Photon belts are the toroidal dynamics of the place, of course it is of interest to those of us who live there. But nothing new.

But in that graph they put this sun too close. Again they include it in the Pleiades, but that depends on the definition of Pleiades, from where it goes. Not for us, since it is 440 light years away. The sun is something else, the Pleiades is another, and between the Pleiades and this sun are the Hyades where Aldebaran and Cyndriel are and all that.

Robert: And it's not even bringing up the frequency of all the biology that's there.

Anéeka: That's relative. Again, it has to do with the influence with the energy that emanates from the center of the Galaxy, like any other Galaxy emanates energy.

Robert: But he's talking about Alcyone.

Anéeka: In the graph above they put this sun too close, as part of everything. And of the stars in M45, it is clear that Alcyone is the center of gravity.

Robert: Come on, what do you mean that before SOL-13 there are many, many more solar systems, right?

Anéeka: Thousands.

Steven Greer - "There are no regressive races"

Anéeka: Steven Greer recently said that there are no regressive races. And they called him irresponsible for saying that.

But from the point of view he meant, it is true. It's what we say too. That everything is being generated in the minds of humans, and that the Federation dominates this entire sector, only that it is permissive to what happens on Earth for very complex reasons. So if it is true, speaking from the absolute there are no regressive races per se here, on, or outside the Earth.

Only that it is necessary or necessary to say to Steven Greer that regressive or not, is something related to another person and their interests and goes hand in hand with living in duality, and if a person has race, culture, gender, identity specifies then you live in duality in one way or another. Therefore there will be a conflict of interest at one or another point or moment. What is interesting or important here is how these differences are dealt with. That is important.

Transplantation of a genetically modified pig heart into a human

Robert: "First successful transplant of a genetically modified pig heart into a human". How do you see that of genetically modified animal transplants to be adapted to the human body? What are the mental, physical and metaphysical implications? Or do you see it as crazy? Or as a solution?

Anéeka: I see it as a low-tech desperate app, having Med Pods that are not that hard to do. Furthermore, genetically modifying a pig is far more difficult than making a Medical Pod.

Again, they only see the body as a machine, not that everything is connected to each other. So yes, there will be metaphysical implications, but it is almost impossible or impossible to know which ones. But yes, the pig's life is crossing or intertwining with that person's.

Robert: Would that person have pig memories?

Anéeka: I don't remember, but in the astral they will have to do with each other at the level of souls, if they are clear about them, because that other aspect would be missing.

Robert: But the Med Pods are coupled with great holographic technology that isn't on Earth, but it would be easier to clone separate organs.

Anéeka: Yes, it's holographic technology (high-definition holograms) but Med Pod doesn't need that much high-definition to make it work. Yes, it is true that the ones here are already very advanced. But there are levels upon levels of Med Pods that even rudimentary would work very well.

For example, in the ones here you can alter the DNA configuration of the subject in seconds to change the color of the hair or the eyes. Or something more extreme. But that is not necessary for it to function on Earth as a damage repair agent in the body. But if it is true that it needs to have a certain level of high definition and a certain type of frequency control of the energy output of the hologram in order for it to work on the stem cells of the Pod that will be used to repair the damage.

And then there are the supporting secondary parts of the Pod, like the stem cell replicator, and the life support systems. But it can be done on Earth with what is known and available there, only the Cabal politicians keep it.

Cyndriel

Robert: There is a Taygetean Colony in Cyndriel, right?

Anéeka: It is the only Taygetean colony outside the Pleiades. It is a passage base for ships as well. And tourist center.

Robert: Why there?

Anéeka: There is Aldebaran, with many consequences of metaphysical learning there, and the planet is very strange, fun and exotic.

Robert: Is it like Temmer?

Anéeka: No, Cyndriel is a desert planet, it's more like Tatooine. But not even that catalogs it well, because its biology is very strange and so is its terrain. Just to begin with, the mountains are almost all on their sides like fallen books one on top of the other, and they are grullere cheeses, full of wide caverns full of light and strange life.

Aldebaran is an Orange Giant. It is said that he opens your mind to see other densities. That you go there and you are no longer the same. Swarupapriyananda began his transformation into a Swaruuneana there.

Robert: And the biology of those planets is dangerous?

Anéeka: Not for all of us. However, it has a dangerous appearance, and almost everything. Then the place provokes intense fear. More with giant Aldebaran on top dominating the entire sky.

Robert: But there are no animals like the Yeti and all that... carnivorous animals, right?

Anéeka: Yes, there are but small ones, they don't hurt you.

A lot like little lizard there but they are not reptiles, they just look like reptiles. Many plants have thorns, but if you touch them, the thorns are soft and do not go through the skin of your fingers. So the place looks dangerous but it is very difficult to get hurt there, unless you fall off a cliff, for example.

There are plants that float in the air almost all their life. About a couple of meters high only. They have a ferrite core and when they grow they wrap their roots and stem around the soil full of magnetic ferrite. Then they break off and are carried by the wind.

And they accumulate in the valleys near the lakes and rivers where there is moisture and they remain floating due to polarity inversion with the super magnetic ground. They are balls of long green leaves with yellow and orange growing in all directions. Like up to 3 meters in diameter, but usually they are about 80cm in diameter. There is nothing like it. Just an orange Mexican Maguey that grows like a ball would be the best description.

Robert: And the Taygeteans meet there to do activities like hiking, camping and all that?

Anéeka: Yes. That's exactly how it is.

Robert: And inside those caves there are no traces of some ancient civilization?

Anéeka: If there is, from the Amelies. But they are no longer, only as energetic beings. It is an ancient race of Cyndriel. Similar to the Yena of Alcyone.

Robert: But did they leave any "ruins"?

Anéeka: Yes, there are cave ruins similar to those in New Mexico in the USA.

Very similar.

Robert: And that civilization collapsed or transcended?

Anéeka: She didn't collapse. Transcendence.

Robert: But they didn't leave modern constructions?

Anéeka: Your civilization did not go in that direction. From simple life they jumped to spiritual. Without going through the high-tech era like Taygeta.

Aneeka: Well, in that photo it seems more like the sun is reflecting off that cloud, and the reason it reflects so much may very well be because of the chemicals that are in that cloud, bearing in mind that the Earth's climate is artificially controlled by middle of chemtrails.

Another point is that it is a thermal inversion. In other words, sunlight reflects off a layer of denser cold air below, creating a mirror effect like ghost water on a highway in full sun. This happens even though the reflection is not seen directly below the position of the sun. This phenomenon is well known by pilots and by us since with height it is easier to see.

Now, global temperatures are also being controlled by means of the same climate engineering system. They can be connected with agendas of control over drinking water, or to make believe that there is climate change.

The climate on Earth is almost entirely artificially controlled. This must always be taken into account. It only seems that the climate is natural when it agrees with how it is supposed to be in each place according to the season of the year, but even then there is great control over the climate. But it is not complete yet. That is to say that with the technology available now, they will not be able to make it hot in Finland in February. But if they can guide the weather more towards the equator between the 33rd parallels.

Between the red and blue lines, control over the weather is almost 100% and the degree of control decreases the further north or south you go.

Between the Tropic of Cancer and the Tropic of Capricorn climate control is 99 to 100%. The reason is that they don't have to deal with extreme weather on Earth that is totally out of their control, as is caused by the natural tilt of the Earth's axis.

Gosia: Europe does not control then, it seems?

Anéeka: Yes, they control Europe but not 100%. However, even if it is further north of the Tropic of Cancer if they have their attention there primarily, then their control is greater there than elsewhere on the Tropic of Cancer, with extra effort using Haarp-type microwaves and chemtrails in large numbers. .

It would only be very difficult or almost impossible for them to completely control the weather already at the poles. Even so if they can control it to a certain degree, as to facilitate their military operations in those places.
